

Oregon Food Bank

Oregon Food Bank is a non-profit agency that collects and delivers food to nearly 900 relief agencies throughout Oregon and Clark County, WA. They rely on volunteers to repackage bulk donated foods into family-sized portions to be handed out in food boxes to the many needy people in our community.

West Hills Covenant Church has had a varied group of people who have served on a monthly 2 hour shift since January, 2010. We have had 7 yr. olds up to great-grandmothers participating in these work days. We've re-packed potatoes, oats, rice, corn-on-the-cob, canned goods, you name it. The opportunities to serve range from heavy lifting, to scooping dry goods, to twisting twisty ties, to sticking labels on bags. So anyone, age 6 and up can participate. It's a great way to acquire some community service hours for students.

It's hard to realize the scope of hunger in our community until you see the size of the Food Bank warehouse and see the amounts of food that pass through there. It's humbling to discover just how much need there is, right here in our own backyard.

This is a wonderful opportunity to be Jesus' hands in preparing food to hand out to our neighbors in need- for whatever we do for the least of our brothers and sisters, we are really doing for Jesus.

Come join us, for one 2 hour shift, or an occasional shift, or sign up for every month! We'd love to have you join the fun!
